4 Limitation of Scope

The review of social media is restricted to the areas listed in the objectives above.

5 Summary of Findings

From the testing carried out, Internal Audit found satisfactory controls over the Marketing and Social Media system. However, some improvements are recommended to enhance the overall system of internal control. The key recommendations made relate to:

Marketing Plan
CODA should consider including clearly defined SMART (specific, measurable, attainable, realistic and timely) objectives. As such reporting to the Board should show achievement towards these objectives rather than just a list of activity undertaken.

Marketing Budget
Internal Audit recommend that the budget should be profiled, based upon the timescale for campaigns within the marketing plan. This would help to provide a more realistic in year review of spend against budget.
Advertising
CODA should consider maintaining documentation as a robust audit trail for sign-off at key stages of advertising.

E-marketing
Senior management should consider consultation with customers to ensure the website meets their needs. Internal Audit recommend that a mechanism is put in place to gauge customers’ views on the design / content of the website on an ongoing basis and how this could be improved.

Brand
CODA should consider including the ‘Style Guidelines’ and use of the CODA brand as part of staff induction training for all managers and administration staff who are required to use the brand.

Social media
CODA should consider developing a separate distinct social media policy to include the elements highlighted in the audit report. In addition a specific social media risk should be included on CODA risk register and continually reviewed.

6 Overall Conclusion and Opinion

On the basis of the audit work carried out the controls in place over Marketing and Social Media provide satisfactory assurance that the system objectives will be achieved.

5 Summary of Findings

From the testing carried out, Internal Audit found satisfactory controls over Corporate Governance. However, some improvements are recommended to enhance the overall system of internal control. The key recommendations are as follows:

Business Planning

Part 2 of the Business Plan should be developed as soon as is operationally feasible. Monitoring and reporting mechanisms should be defined, to regularly review performance against this plan.

Assessment of Board Effectiveness

An assessment of the performance of the Chair of the Board should be carried out as soon as is practicable.

Improvements to roles and responsibilities

- The Board should consider if it would be advantageous to have at least one Senior Management of CODA as an attendee at Board Meetings.
- Any future engagement of a Chair should have a clear outline of the additional duties required, which should be clearly stipulated within the Contract of Engagement.

Improvement to the systems for financial reporting and monitoring internal control

- In compliance with the Combined Code the CODA Board should consider including statements within their annual report to confirm that they have applied the main principles of the Corporate Governance Code and a statement on the effectiveness of CODA’s system of internal control.
Internal Audit recommends that the Board consider developing a Code of Conduct for Board Members and making a statement within their letter of representation confirming they have made a robust assessment of the principal risks.

Updated Provisions UK Combined Code 2016
Internal Audit recommends that the Board consider the latest changes to the Combined Code in 2016 for future accounting periods, and identify and implement any changes to current practices required.

Recommendations in relation to the RCAM Contract:
Internal Audit recommends that the Board note the areas reviewed by audit and the level of fees placed in the ‘risk pot’ and consider the correlation between performance and payment of these areas in future agreements.

Implementation of ‘Strictly Boardroom’ recommendations
A number of the Strictly Boardroom recommendations are not yet fully implemented:
- The appointment of additional Non Executive Director’s (NED’s) in the future is an area which should be kept under consideration to ensure the board has an appropriate mix of skills.
- Consideration should be given to whether training is needed to ensure Board Members are kept up to date with Best Practice on their roles/ responsibilities and reinforce and acknowledge the collective responsibility and working of the Board.
- The CODA Board should consider the frequency of meetings required for subcommittees and request the committees meet at the requisite frequency and amend the Terms of Reference accordingly.
- The CODA Board should consider if it is timely to review the governing documents.
- The Board should consider succession planning as early as considered feasible to ensure last minute board renewal / member replacement is avoided and to avoid a loss of corresponding skill / knowledge.
- Consideration should be given to the refreshment of the Board prior to any further extension of NED contracts.
- The role of NEDs should be clearly stipulated within the contracts of engagement. In compliance with the Combined Code, consideration should be given to ensure that NED’s have no executive responsibilities.

6 Overall Conclusion and Opinion
On the basis of the audit work carried out the controls in place over Corporate Governance provide satisfactory assurance that the system objectives will be achieved.
